Fred Cummins Chief La-Ko-Ta The patriotism sounded from the bridge at Concord, which reverberated in gun and cannon shot around the world, was generated in the breasts of the men who followed the patriots of 1776, and who became the undaunted pathfinders of this great country, blazing across its trackless and hostile Indian-possessed prairies, through dreary wildernesses and primeval forest, across the rugged and snow capped Rockies. Along what are now the pathways of commerce from the Atlantic to the Pacific. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
