Everything that you ever wanted to know about Fire will teach you amazing things like what material can produce a flame without oxygen being involved and what wood gives off almost no smoke when it is burned? This book answers the question why is the smoke following me. Do you know what wood burns best when it is alive? There is a list of 100 types of wood that describes their properties like how some burn better when they are green than when they are seasoned. Which ones give great coals to cook by or which ones give off a great amount of light to read ghost stories by. It will tell you which types of wood pop and spark a lot and which ones are easy to split or to light. This book will tell you which types of wood have a fragrant smell, give very little smoke and which ones make a great cooking fire. You will learn...
