And those whose hearts had been o erwhelmed and anxiously distress d Found comfort in their sadness, and in their labour rest; And life and health and strength by Him were given back again, Who never said to Jacob s seed, Seek ye My faco in vain. Summer Flowers. ND during all the trying time in the sick sufferer s room Thy welcome presence, Alice, cheered the melancholy gloom; And thy experienced heart and hand were ready with their aid Weaving thyself unconsciously a crown that shall not fade. A crown worth all the diadems that mighty monarchs wear, Although these be with jewels set most costly and most rare; The noblest honours we can have arise from Christ-like deeds-- These are the brilliant flowers, while Those are only gaudy weeds.
